Platt, it is alleged, regards the LXX.'s plan to prepare measures for presentation to the Legislature as unwarranted presumption. He thinks, or claims to think, that reform measures required by the new city administration should emanate from the Mayor.

Col. Strong, however, is well satisfied with the LXX.'s proposed work.

"It is entirely proper," he said this morning, "for the LXX. to draft necessary reform measures. That is right in line with its duty, and I am heartily glad that it has undertaken the work."

Col. Strong added, however, that he had received assurance that the LXX. would not presume to suggest whom he should appoint to office.

Proposition of Shirt Manufacturers to the Strikers. The striking shirtmakers assembled at the headquarters of their union at East Fifty-ninth Broadway this forenoon.

A member of the Strike Committee said that several contractors had told their employees that if they would work for reduced prices, they could have work all Winter, but if they insisted upon the union scale, work would be given out for only two or three days
each week until the busy seson opens, in January. The bosses argue that they can not afford to pay the union scale because they cannot obtain corresponding prices rfom the wholesalers for their goods.

On the other hand the strikers declare that if the bosses can give out steady work now at reduced prices, it shows that they have pienty of material prepared for making up, and that they will dispose of manuafctured gods at good prices.

The cutters are reporter to be steadily employed, and great quantities of material, redy for the operators, is being stored away and will be brought out when the busy season arrives.

"If the contractors have a mind they can obtain such prices for their stocks
as will enable them to pay the union scale, said a member of the union, "but their real reason for desiring reduced prices from the workers is to make greater profits. It is the same with us as with the coatmakers, who force; the bosses to pay better wages because they knew that the employers were making more money than they were willing to admit." admit."
More strikes are threatened against contractors, who are endeavoring to force a reduction of the union scale of prices.

floors, and as he pounded away he shouted:

"Wake up here! Don't get alarmed! The house is on fire!"

In the mean time Moore had gone into the basement. There he found flames in a little closet. He 'stamped out the flames and walked quietly upstairs fust as Gordon came rushing down.

"It's all smoke," said shoore, "I've put out the fire."

"Put out nothing," shouted Gordon.

as Gordon came rushing down.

"It's all smoke," said Moore, "Twe put out the fire."

"Put out nothing," shouted Gordon. "the fire is rigging here on the first floor: Mrs. Nolan is in there dead."

The fire is rigging here on the first floor: Mrs. Nolan is in there dead."

The fire in the closet was only one end of the blaze, the main section of it was between the walls of the basement, and had crept up into the centre of the front rooms on the first floor where Mrs. Nolan slept with her children. An Gordon pounded on her door, the woman only groaned, that is why he thought she was dying.

Two other boarders came and battered in the door, while Gordon went to turn in the alarm. Mrs. Nolan was neither dead nor dying, but she was so badly rightened that she could not move. One of the boarders carried her out into the street. Then Lizzie Kavanaugh, the domestic, carried out the two children, Timothy and Joseph, aged four and six years. There was a great deal of smoke in the rooms right near to the bed, and there were long tongues of flame licking their way along the floor.

No sooner had the domestic seen the children safe in the street than she had a fit on the pavement. She was carried into a near-by house, where Dr. Campbell, of $20 West Twenty-second street, across from the burning house, attended her. She recovered in a few minutes, and asked if it was time to cook breakfast for the boarders. She couldn't very well have done that, for at the moment the firemen were tearing out the kitchen walls and overturning the range to look for the fire.

The blaze had evidently started from an overheated furnace, and most of it was right in the centre of the house and could not be got at until the walls were torn away. This caused more damage than the fire, but $1,500 will cover the entire loss. All the boarders got out safely and quietly, and were made comfortable in neighboring houses.

Senator Bradley said, "it is a protest against the continued domination of a single man in the Republican party. I don't pretend to understand the political history of the State as completely as those who have been more active in political life, but I do know that Gen. Sewell's leadership has become offensive to a large portion of the people. Gen. Sewell's politics and his Pennsylvanja Railroad affairs are too much mixed to make him a disinterested or safe leader to follow. His identification with various corporate interests and his dictatorial manner have also served to give great offense to the people.

"It is in the interests of New Jersey and the Republican party that some one besides Gen. Sewell should succeed Senator McPherson. I know Franklin Murphy very well and have a kindly feeling for him. If he were thought to be the best man I'd yote for him. However. I am opposed to Sewell, and I want that clearly understood."

office, and to an "Evening World" reporter said:

for the first ten days or so of the strike, and it is true that some of the manufacturers then gave in to the strikers. Since then, however, it is different. Not a single case of the manufacturers then gave in to the strikers. Since then, however, it is different. Not a single member of our organization has gone back on us.

"It is impossible to say how long these people will be deluded by such men as Barondess. As a matter of fact there has not been a single case of eviction on account of the strike. Neither is there a single case of want or destitution among the strikers' families. They are all, from a money standpoint, well off.

"As nearly as we can figure it, there are now about 1,200 or 1,500 of the old men out of employment. We are not concerned about them. If they want to starve, they can do so. We are not going to meet any committee of the strikers, nor any one else. We have nothing now to discuss."

The strike leaders tell a different story to that of Mr. Richman. When an "Evening World" reporter got to their headquarters at Walhalla Hall at 8 o'clock tolday a meeting was then in progress and it was of the most enthusiastic order. As a matter of fact the meeting began at 6 A. M., and it is scheduled to last all day and far into the night. The striking employees of every shop hold independent meetings, each crowd awaiting their turn.

There was great cheering at the report that delegates from a number of trades had met in Clarendon Hall last night and decide to help the strikers that they had the sympathy of organized labor generally and that food in plenty would be forthcoming immediately.

A regular press committee has been organized to give out the news from the strikers standpoint. The first item of intelligence was that two of the manufacturers had given in yesterday, and signed contracts, and that two more would sign to-day.

The Press Committee did not hear the names of the manufacturers referred to. As stated abovs, President Richman says there is not a grain of truth in the statement.

What se

fortunates time in which to make a settlement.

The alleged eviction cases from 413 Cherry street yesterday have assumed a different phase to-day. One of the tenants—a woman—was ordered out because she had assaulted a number of her neighbors, forcing two families to leave. As soon as the woman was ordered out she cut the water pipes in the house, flooding the different floors. She also broke all the windows. Then she moved into another tenement.

There are three marshais in the Fifth District Court, namely: William Sullivan, William Herschfield and Benjamin Speer. When questioned as to the eviction cases, they said that not more than half a dozen had taken place in the last thirty days, and that only two of these were strikers families. Most of the cases, they said, were settled by the families moving out by their own accord.

As against this statement the striker

the families moving out by their own accord.

As against this statement the strike leaders say that while no evictions have actually taken place fully 200 families, who found they could not pay rent, gave up their apartments voluntarily and sold their furniture. Most, if not all of these people, it is said, are now living with their more fortunate friends.

WRECKED WITH A CARGO OF MULES.

The Crew Had a Hard Time of It, When They Got Ashore, Fighting Scorpions and Centipedes in the Dark.

The Rockland schooner, Hannah McLoon, Capt. Alley, left Rosario Aug. 9, bound for Pernambuco with a cargo of mules. After a hard tussile stowing a hundred long-eared, kicking, squealing animals aboard, the schooner dropped down the River Plate and squared away over the bar. When she was half way across she struck, and then the ocean. She had fair weather for eight days. But after this the round of her misfortunes began, one running into the other.

First she lest her main gaff, split the spanker sail and carried out enough cloth to leave her half-canvassed. The crew patched her up, but a plank was strained soon after, and when the crew went to pump her they found the valves cheked with the sand brought aboard to make footing for the mules. All hands had to turn to and ball her with the fire buckets.

The mules by this time began to feel the effects of sea and climate, and when the schooner was off. Abrolos Light twelve of the animais had been thrown over the side. On Sept. 3 she drifted in towards the land. Before they could get
